PRESS RELEASE

Chester County Man Arrested for Abusing Multiple Children

Chester County District Attorney Tom Hogan announced the arrest of defendant Christopher Guisepe for the sexual abuse of multiple children. The defendant is 33 years old and resided in his parents' basement at 64 Ashley Court, Caln Township, Downingtown, Pennsylvania.

District Attorney Hogan stated, "This defendant is accused of molesting three children under 10 years old. We are concerned that there may be more victims out there. Any child exposed to this defendant was at risk."

The facts alleged in the criminal complaint are as follows:¹

Between January of 2014 and April of 2016, the defendant at various times was in charge of three children, ages 6, 8, and 9. The children included two of his biological children and one child who was the daughter of his girlfriend.

The defendant showed pornography to these children. The defendant then engaged in various types of sexual assault with the children individually. These assaults took place at 64 Ashley Court and the 500 block of Bondsville Road in Caln Township, Chester County.

¹ A criminal defendant is presumed innocent until proven guilty in court.

All of the victims were interviewed by trained forensic child interviewers at the Chester County Child Advocacy Center.

The defendant is charged with involuntary deviate sexual intercourse, aggravated indecent assault, corruption of minors, incest, and related charges. He failed to post bail and was committed to Chester County Prison.

This case was investigated by the Caln Township Police Department and the Chester County Detectives. The assigned prosecutor is Assistant District Attorney Megan King. Anybody with any further information should contact Caln Police Department Sgt. Christine Cusick at (610) 383-1821.
