

CHESTER COUNTY'S MANAGING FOR RESULTS WINS PA AWARD FOR LOCAL GOVERNMENT EXCELLENCE

[Chester County Commissioners (L to R) Ryan Costello, Terence Farrell, and Kathi Cozzone receiving a Local Government Excellence Award in Harrisburg, PA on April 15, 2011]

Chester County's Strategic Planning Managing for Results, has won a 2011 Governor's Award for Local Government Excellence in the category Fiscal Accountability and Best Management Practices. The criteria set for this category by the PA Department of Community & Economic Development was: "The nominee must have instituted a process, policy, and/or procedure that enhanced its fiscal accountability and utilization of resources and assets, and which can serve as a model for other local governments to use as a best management practice."

The County's Managing for Results project has been driven by the Chester County Board of Commissioners with the Department of Human Resources, Department of Computing and Information Services, Office of the Controller, and Department of Finance all working together towards full implementation.
