Three Pollution Control Projects Funded in Chester County

29 County Conservation Districts Received Funding to Promote Water Pollution Prevention Strategies across Pennsylvania

(Kennett Square, PA)— Chester County Conservation District received $4,250.00 for several Manure Management Workshops throughout the county, two Agriculture Field Days for equine and mushroom operations, and a Municipal Stormwater Workshop within the Christina Basin.

“The projects funded through this mini-grant program will reach many of our county’s citizens. Our District staff will educate a variety of audiences on actions they can take every day to improve water quality,” said Chris Strohmaier, Managing Director.

Education and outreach about the projects is expected to begin in May. The District expects to start the workshops and field days no later than July.

Statewide, forty-one projects will be funded in twenty-nine counties. Projects include agricultural field days, streamside landowner workshops, forestry workshops, homeowner workshops, and more. For a complete listing of awarded projects, visit <https://tinyurl.com/2020-21NPS>.
